

ABOUT THE STATE

Happenings of Interest from Different Sections.

Frank and Byron Danforth of East Rupert secured five raccoons one day recently from a hollow tree.

Mrs. George Colley, who died at her home in Benson a few days ago at the age of 27 years, left eight children, the youngest two days old.

John Munsell of West Hartford has discovered a new way to catch mink. On his way to his traps on a recent morning, he discovered a mink asleep on the river bank, took it by the back of the neck and carried it home.

James E. Kennedy, United States internal revenue collector, who has charge of the district in which Vermont is located, with office at Burlington, is soon to open a division office in Rutland, Bellows Falls and at Montpelier and a sub-division office at St. Johnsbury.

The lime kiln, which has been in operation for about 100 years at the high bridge above the Winooski gorge, has been purchased by New York and Boston interests, who will greatly enlarge the plant. The plant will remain under the management, with Charles E. Ralph, the present superintendent.

The half dozen deer in Ethan Allen park in Burlington are to be sold, the cost of feeding them being more than the city feels it can afford. It amounts to about $5 weekly. The deer are so tame they respond to their names and eat out of the keepers' hands and the park superintendent hopes to be able to place them in some private or public preserve.

Arlington has produced an unusual deer story. Max Grout, of that place was called out of bed early Tuesday morning by the announcement of other members of the family that a deer was in sight of the house. Hurrying into a few clothes, Mr. Grout grasped a gun which a younger brother had ready for him, and without waiting to get his slippers or stockings ran from the house. His first shot brought down the deer.

The home for boys, incorporated under the name, The Green Mountain Home, Inc., which is to be located in Bennington, was organized in June, 1920. It is established for the benefit of 13-year-old boys, sons of soldiers or sailors, and will also be open to others providing there are not enough of the former who apply previous to June. Scientific instruction in agriculture and horticulture will be the principal object of the school, which, according to the by-laws, is to be a permanent institution to be forever maintained at Bennington. Edward H. Everett established the home and gave the land, building and equipment.

A man whose name was not learned, said to be from Burlington, had about as close a call for his life as there is on record while hunting deer in Underhill Center last Monday. Slung over his back was a haversack containing cartridges, mittens, eye glasses, etc. A bullet fired from a 32 high power rifle went directly through the haversack completely cutting the thumb off one mitten, ripping open a cartridge box and smashing his glasses in pieces. He saw the fellow that fired the shot, and called to him but he evidently was so frightened at what he had done that he ran away.

Caledonia County Deer.

Burke, doe, A. J. Taylor, Newport.

Major General William G. Haan, assistant chief of staff, in charge of the war department's re-employment program, says:

"To-day the American Legion has become an aggressive factor in getting jobs for our fighting men. They are extending the scope of their influence so very rapidly that now this influence is felt in every state in the union. While the original plan was for the members to co-operate in employment work, in many communities it has been necessary for them to take over the entire burden, because of the withdrawal of other agencies from the field. In every case they are meeting with the greatest success, and eventually this Legion will be the great standby of the soldier who needs assistance of any kind.

RUN DOWN "WORK SLACKERS"

Is New Job Which American Legion Has Taken Upon Itself.

Eliminating the "work slacker" is the new job which the American Legion has taken upon itself, acting in conjunction with the war department's chain of employment bureaus through the country. This type of ex-serviceman, while not numerous, is occasionally a serious detriment to the work of placing ex-soldiers and sailors in satisfactory jobs. Their attitude of dissatisfaction among employers who are really trying to help, and give a black eye to other service men who still need work.

Practically all the posts of the Legion now have employment committees. In some cases these committees have taken over all the task of finding jobs for their fellow service men. In other instances they consult with the war department. In Bridgeport, Conn., where the work slacker has been a special evil, the Legion keeps a special file of such cases of repeating in jobs. As a rule a heart-to-heart talk from a comrade in arms has been enough. In other cases a refractory man has been denied the services of the employment office altogether.

In Detroit the Legion works also with the police. When an ex-soldier in uniform is taken up for some minor offense, like begging or peddling, a probationary system has been adopted. Instead of sending these men to jail, the authorities have consented to put them on probation with the American Legion. This practice has had a very salutary effect, and Detroit's problem of putting to work every returned fighting man is no longer so serious.

In practically all states, the employment committee of the Legion now makes a canvass of all the employers. Wherever jobs are offered returned soldiers, the employers are told that the Legion expects to keep in touch with the men in places, in order to see that they give satisfactory service. If this is not forthcoming, the Legion gives such men short shrift. On the other hand, the deserving ex-serviceman who needs employment will have his case persisted in until he is placed. Work slacker have to appear before a committee of their comrades.

In many places local chambers of commerce or associations of manufacturers have agreed with the Legion to have a job for every home-coming soldier and sailor.

In commenting upon the nation-wide co-operation of the American Legion,

Money Is Not Everything, but the lack of it is embarrassing. An annuity guarantees a steady life income. For people of advanced years, the return is so large that a modest investment will bring a comfortable living. Consult us with the war department. (Mutual) S. B.
